ANNOUNCEMENT

Your editor apologizes for this issue of the newsletter being late due to illness in the family. Life is slowly returning to normal!

A TINGLE IN THE GULF WAR!

Probably every reader of 'TINGLE DESCENDANTS' was 'glued' to his or her television set on Monday evening, February 25th. On the C.B.S. Evening News Report did you see Corporal Kevin Tingle of the U.S. Marine Corps? He was pictured offshore at Kuwait two days after the ground attack opened. Can any of our readers further identify Kevin Tingle?

TINGLE ART AT ITS BEST!

What would this past Christmas have been without a special greeting card from Dolli Tingle Brackett of Westport, Connecticut? Drawn in her inimitable style she describes it as "three kinks with red noses sitting sideways on an elephant and they're inside some strange red canopy sort of thing." The black and white reproduction below fails to do justice to the original which was printed in black, red, green and gold. Thank you, Dolli!

MERRY CHRISTMAS

CORRECTION!

The excellent and far ranging ten page article on "GEORGE EDMUND TINGLE OF VIRGINIA, KENTUCKY, INDIANA AND WASHINGTON, D.C." that appeared in the Winter 1990 issue of this newsletter created quite a stir. One correspondent, who has asked to remain anonymous, contends that the George Edmund Tingle of Monongalia County, Virginia (now West Virginia) is not the same George E. Tingle who died in Washington, D.C. in 1867.

Our assiduous staff member, Mrs. JoAnn R. Rice, devoted a great deal of her time to researching hitherto uncovered facts for that article. She has called attention to a slight error on page 15 of the sketch, last paragraph. The word 'grandfather' preceding 'Amory K. Tingle' should have read 'grand-uncle.' Mrs. Rice will be the first to admit that erroneous assumptions can creep into a story on family history but your editor feels some burden of proof rests on the shoulders of anyone who claims her conclusions to be mistaken. The pages of 'TINGLE DESCENDANTS' are open to any person who can disprove statements appearing in any article. We aim to be factual.

AN EXCELLENT SUGGESTION!

Mrs. Sarah Tingle Everding of Kensington, Maryland has come forth with a splendid idea. She suggests that our readers select an ancestor and do a biography or vignette of him or her. This would bring to life, so to speak, those long gone ancestors and would make for interesting reading by our members. In turn, such articles would provide material and names for other Tingle descendants to write about. Don't worry about spelling, grammar, etc. You don't have to be a Nobel Prize Winner for your story to appear in our newsletter. Sarah sets an example for us with her story in this issue about the tintype of James Selby Black.

BEHIND "GENTLEMEN" JOHN TINGLE'S TINTYPE

THE MYSTERY OF JAMES SELBY BLACK

In my previous effort to portray my great-grandfather, "Gentlemen" John Tingle,* as a living entity of his day and as someone more than just another link in the ancestry chain, I wrote that there was a tintype of his portrait which had belonged to my father, Severn Murray Tingle.** However, I failed to note then the Spencerian caption on its reverse "James Selby Black's picture." For a very long time I wondered if this person in the tintype was indeed Gentlemen John, or who? However, later having seen a photo of the portrait of him substantiated his identity. Also, I had concluded that the tintype was originally meant for James Selby Black. This was not so, as you will see upon further reading.

Before Christmas, this year, I decided that my tintype had been in a drawer long enough and should be displayed. So, while in the silver department of Woodward & Lothrop's department store, I found just the frame. I was sure it measured correctly. However, the clerk snatched it away from me, saying, "Over there," pointing to the right. I went "over there" and searched, but no other silver frame exactly like my selection was anywhere. I returned to a second clerk and finding myself slightly annoyed at this point, I told her I wanted the one the first clerk took away. Much to my amazement, I heard myself say that if I could not have the one I wanted I would go to the store manager, an action quite unlike me. Finally, I was sold (at considerable reduction) the frame I desired, and went home to place Gentleman John where he belonged.

Well, he did not fit! I had to cut down the mat, and this was not easy, as I did not wish to destroy the Spencerian writing about Black. When I finished, Gentleman John was upside down. So I had to take the tintype out of its pocket. When I did so, I found not one, but two, tintypes. The second one was James Selby Black, a nice-looking young boy about twelve years of age, now most likely deceased. Who was he? Relative, friend? Please write your Editor if there is anyone who can shed some light on his identity.

WORCESTER MEMORIES, 1890 - 1933

This 152 page book, published in 1984 by the Worcester Heritage Committee, is a fascinating collection of stories and photographs depicting life and scenes in Worcester County, Maryland around the period 1890 to 1933.

Pictured below is SALLY TINGLE with her nineteen pupils. The building appears to have been a one-room school house. Based on my research the teacher is SALLIE CATHARINE RADCLIFFE TINGLE (1872-1945), unmarried, and a daughter of Thomas Nathaniel Chapman Tingle and his wife, Laura Louise Fassitt. Sallie would appear to have been in her twenties which would date the picture around 1900. Through her father she was a seventh generation descendant of Hugh Tingle who emigrated to Maryland in 1669. The site of Taylorville School was probably not more than ten miles, as the crow flies, from where Hugh Tingle made his first purchase of land in 1693. The Tingles, like many families of the region, farmed and stayed close to the land of their origin.

For those descendants of Hugh Tingle, scattered across America, this book vividly portrays life and places in Worcester County, land of their ancestor. The publication is available through the Worcester Heritage Committee, 307 W. Washington St., Snow Hill, MD 21863. I think the price is $11.00. We are indebted to Ms. Kathy Fisher for permission to reproduce the above picture.

Mrs. JoAnn Rice has done it again! From the Indiana Historical Society, 1990 Source Book and Index, she discovered on page 218 a list of Civil War Veterans, including one John W. Tingle. Digging further she found a biographical sketch of him on page 1223 of "Presidents, Soldiers, Statesmen," published in 1898 by H.H. Hardesty. Thanks to Mrs. Rice we are able to reproduce it below:

JOHN W. TINGLE

Was born in Eaton, Ohio, Oct 31, 1838, and was a son of Samuel L. and Clarissa (Williams) Tingle, deceased. He was married in Preble county, O., Dec. 25, 1860, to Mary L. Early, who was born in that county June 20, 1837. Of this union were born the following children: Sallie, dec., Carrie R., Frank E., Samuel L. and Estelia. His wife's father, Joseph Early, is deceased, but her mother, whose maiden name was Sarah Saylor, is still living. Comrade Tingle was 23 years of age when he cast his lot as a soldier, joining Co. G, 93d O. V. I., as a private Aug. 22, 1862, at Dayton, Ohio. He was promoted to Sergt. and so served in the battles of Stone River, Antioch, Liberty Gap, Hoovers Gap and Chickamauga; at the latter conflict he was wounded Sept. 19, 1863, in left knee; he was removed to hospital at Chattanooga, Tenn., and eight weeks later was transferred to Murfreesboro, where he was given a thirty days' furlough; not being able to return to duty at end of that time, it was twice extended for thirty days each. He was taken prisoner at Stone River, near Murfreesboro, being held in Libby prison till exchanged June 1, 1863. He was again captured at Chickamauga and was exchanged ten days later. July, 1864, he was detailed as clerk at Gen. Willick's Hd. Qtrs., at Cincinnati, and served as such until released from duty in October, 1864, having been discharged the 29th of that month at Cincinnati, Ohio. He still meets with the boys as a member of Sol. Meridith Post, No. 55, in which he has been Commander. S. V. C. and J. V. C. of the Dept. His brother, William E., served in Co. G, 93d O. V. I.; his wife's brother Frank served in Co. G, 93d O. V. I. Comrade Tingle has been township trustee seven years and is at present treasurer of Morrison-Reeves Library at Richmond, Ind., where he resides; he is by occupation a cabinet maker.

Mrs. Rice concluded that the above JOHN W. TINGLE and his brother, WILLIAM TINGLE, were the male offspring of Samuel Lockwood Tingle and his wife, Clarissa Williams whose names appeared in our newsletter on page 19, Vol. 4 - No. 1. She was right! The enclosed Family Group Listings of this couple show their four children. Apparently Clarissa Williams Tingle died and her husband married a second time to Rachel M. Dopp, by whom there were at least two children. This Family Group Listing is shown on the reverse side of the first one. Mrs. Rice completed a Family Group Sheet for John W. Tingle, his wife and five children. Please see the enclosed.
